2004-2005 INTERNATIONAL CENTER HIGHLIGHTS

PROGRAMS ABROAD

- UCSD is ranked 1st among research institutions based on student participation in full-year study abroad programs. 30% of our students were on full-year programs compared to 6% nationally. While participation in long-term programs has been steady, short-term sojourns abroad have more than doubled in five years.
- Math, Science and Engineering majors represented 22% of all UCSD students abroad, compared with the national average of 15.1% in these fields.
- UCSD students bound for Africa more than doubled, increasing 132%, from 19 to 44 students. Asian destinations increased from 14% to 22% of the total, while Western Europe destinations declined from 56% to 49%.
- The 2005 UCSD Undergraduate Student Experience and Satisfaction Survey indicates that study abroad participants are “considerably more satisfied with their overall university experience than those students who do not take advantage of educational experiences beyond the traditional.”
- 59% of EAP participants were financial aid eligible, compared with the campus average of 54%.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS AND SCHOLARS

- UCSD is ranked 4th among U.S. research institutions, based on our international scholar population of 2,090 individuals. (International "scholars" are academic researchers and faculty at UCSD.)
- UCSD hosted a total of 5,121 non-immigrant international students and scholars during 2004-05:
1,986 students 2,090 scholars/faculty 1,045 Extension students
- International students at UCSD increased in number from 1,811 to 1,986 during 2004-05, despite a national trend of declining international students experienced by many other U.S. campuses.
- Over the past 10 years, the number of UCSD international students has more than doubled, increasing by 158%, while the number of international scholars has increased by 66%.

FRIENDS OF THE INTERNATIONAL CENTER AND VOLUNTEER SUPPORT

- Community groups, including Friends of the International Center, contributed $122,951 to UCSD through the International Center including funds for programs, facility, and scholarship support.
- Over 1,176 active volunteers contributed valuable time and hospitality to International Center programs.
- Volunteers provided over 30,000 “person-hours” to UCSD. Examples of “person hours:”
 - English Language Tutors volunteered 12,100 hours
 - Weekly Coffee Hour volunteers donated 3,000 hours of hospitality, hosting spouses and children
 - Friends Resale Shop volunteers donated 3,600 hours and raised $17,000 for scholarships

INTERNATIONAL CENTER FACILITY AND ACTIVITIES

- Over 1,000 events were held at the International Center. Primary users were student organizations.
- 7,842 students, scholars and community members attended weekly International Café lunches.

UCSD's INTERNATIONAL HOUSE

- International House hosted 296 student and scholar residents, of which 47% were international and 53% were from the United States.
- International House received 441 applications for 270 available openings.

INTERNATIONAL CENTER

M I S S I O N

MISSION STATEMENT

The International Center's mission is to promote and support international exchange and education.

- To provide the UCSD community with experiences that foster global perspectives, cross-cultural competence, and appreciation for diversity.
- To support UCSD international students, scholars, and study abroad participants with services that enhance the quality of their intercultural experience and contribute to their academic success.
- To facilitate UCSD's participation in global scholarship and international educational exchange.

INTERNATIONAL CENTER GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

- To inspire an appreciation of differences among cultures by providing opportunities for all segments of the campus community to participate in international education and intercultural exchange.
- To facilitate campus and community volunteerism in support of international educational exchange activities.
- To provide outreach and advising that enables increasing numbers of students, representing all academic majors and the full diversity of our campus, to enrich their studies with education abroad.
- To meet the special needs of international students, faculty, and researchers, integrating them into campus life, so as to maximize reciprocal benefits from their participation in the UCSD community.
- To facilitate re-entry of study abroad returnees, ensuring personal reintegration and maximum sharing of their international education experiences with the UCSD community.
- To support growth and development of UCSD International House, in order to increase on-campus intercultural exchange and understanding between international and US students and scholars, including both residents and non-residents.

ANNUAL REPORT
COMMITTEE ON INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION
2004-05

In 2004-2005 the UCSD Senate Committee on International Education (CIE) held three quarterly meetings and discussed a variety of issues, addressed in this report in sections grouped under various units and positions.

The University Committee on International Education (UCIE)

UCIE held three quarterly meetings in the year, and many agenda items deal with the University Office of Education Abroad Programs (UOEAP) headquartered in Santa Barbara. The following were issues worthy of notice.

110% Cap on Unit Enrollment: On its November 2004 meeting, UCIE discussed the proposed 110% cap on unit enrollment and the potential impact to the UOEAP. Charging additional fees to students who exceed 110% of the minimum required number of units for graduation could be a possible deterrent to student participation in EAP.

Reviews of EAP Study Centers: All EAP study centers are periodically reviewed. Those up for review in the year were Hong Kong, Ghana, Spain, and a number of short-term programs. UOEAP appoints UC faculty from different campuses and includes one UCIE representative on each formal review committee. The committees meet in Santa Barbara, discuss concerns with the UOEAP staff, and make suggestions for improvement to UCIE.

Suspension of the Overseas Programs: In Spring 2005 UCIE considered whether to reopen EAP sites suspended due to terrorist threats (e.g., sites in Israel and the Philippines). Similar deliberation took place for UCSD's Opportunity Abroad Program (OAP), which decided to follow the EAP decision on closure despite students' petition.

Appointments of EAP Study Center Directors (SCDs): There were 18 openings of SCD in the year. UOEAP received 159 inquiries and 69 applications (19 from northern campuses and 26 from southern campuses). One center had no applicant (Egypt), while others received many (e.g., 11 for UK/I London Cal House). Professor Todd Kontje (Literature) was the only applicant from UCSD this year and was recommended for the Germany position. Since UCSD has very little representation of current SCDs, at the March 2005 meeting CIE members considered ways to encourage UCSD faculty to apply for SCDs in the future. Making available a list of former directors on campus to facilitate consultation and sending a letter to department chairs were considered as possible actions.

Three Other Developments: One development worthy of attention is a task force entrusted by UOEAP to (1) investigate the effectiveness of the model of appointing faculty to direct study centers and (2) to consider the possibility of restructuring study centers. Currently, a few centers (like those in Hong Kong) are administered by non-UC faculty, but academic quality is a concern. The second development covers several proposed programs, including University of Wageningen, Netherlands, Free University, Berlin, Fudan University, Shanghai, and two summer language programs in Paris and Madrid. The third development is an ongoing UOEAP effort at strategic planning, which focuses on academic integration on all UC campuses (see more below).

UCSD Faculty Directors

Upon CIE recommendation, Professor David Mares has been reappointed as Faculty Director of EAP through June 30, 2006, and Professor Ramon Pinon reappointed as Associate Faculty Director of EAP for the same duration. Also upon CIE recommendation, Professor Mares was offered a summer stipend in 2005 so that he could continue to work on the academic integration project.

Funded in part by UOEAP, the project aims to integrate study abroad courses into UCSD curricula. As of May 2005, Professor Mares indicated significant progress in these programs and department—Latin American Studies, Political Science, Human Development, Linguistics, Chinese Studies, Japanese Studies, Biology. Other units in the work included Theater and Dance, Chemistry, Visual Arts, and work was slated to begin with Engineering, Cognitive Science, Communication, History, and Literature.

UCSD International Center Activities

The UCSD International Center oversees two large areas of operations: the International Student/Scholars Office (ISSO) dealing with people from overseas, and the Programs Abroad Office (PAO) helping students going abroad.

At the Fall meeting, Michael Hindi reported on ISSO activities, stating that the International Center's 2003-04 data show the number of international scholars continues to increase and the number of international students applying is declining, although the quality of students remains high and, therefore, enrollment remains high. Reporting on the federally mandated changes to the SEVIS reporting system on international scholars, students and dependents, Mr. Hindi described the deemed export issue and new security checks and the labor intensive impact of these on the International Center staffing. One new trend for international scholars to enter the US is their preference for H visa over J visa. The former is considered more prestigious, but processing H visas has proven expensive.

UCSD continues to outpace other UC campuses in total numbers of students abroad. Through EAP and OAP, UCSD sent 958 students abroad in 2003-2004, compared with 947 for UC Davis, 942 for UCLA, 790 for UC Berkeley, and 161 for UC Riverside. UCSD's success in this area, however, has created a heavy work load for the staff. At the Winter 2005 meeting, CIE members endorsed an International Center request for a new staff position.

UCSD International Strategy Workgroup

A new development on campus last year was the formation of an International Strategy Workgroup, headed by Dean Richard Attiyeh and comprised of divisional deans and other campus leaders. The workgroup was initially charged to (1) assess UCSD's existing international presence, (2) identify institutions, nations, or regions with which UCSD should seek stronger relationship, and (3) evaluate adequacy of administrative and/or financial support for campus units seeking to build international connections. In Spring 2005 the workgroup extended membership to include Mary Dhooge, Director of International Center, and Yingjin Zhang, Chair of CIE.

Most workgroup members agree that UCSD, in spite of its growing academic reputation, lags behind its peers in international visibility. Some point out as a serious problem the absence of a campus-level authority coordinating all international activities, a position many research universities (e.g., Duke and University of Wisconsin-Madison) have had in place for a long time. A recommendation is made to create such a position in some fashion. As for nations in need of stronger relationship, China and Mexico are unanimously recommended.

UC System-wide International Strategy

Gretchen Kalonji, the newly appointed Director of International Strategy Development in the UC Office of the President, spoke at the UICE May 12, 2005 meeting. She subsequently visited UCSD and presented her ideas to a meeting attended by CIE, the International Strategy Workgroup, and other campus representatives. How Professor Kalonji's initiatives would relate to existing programs on various campuses was a concern at the UCIE meeting.

Proposal for a New Ex Officio Member

At the Fall 2004 meeting Professor Mares proposed to appoint the Faculty Director of the Institute for International, Comparative and Area Studies (IICAS) as an ex officio member of CIE. Professor Mares reported that Professor Miles Kahler, current Director of IICAS, also was the Director of the International Studies Program, an interdisciplinary major and minor program. IICAS, an organized research unit (ORU), is charged to promote research on international comparative and cross-regional topics. A proposal to change the CIE's bylaw to add the IICAS director as an ex-officio member was submitted to the UCSD senate.

Professor Kahler was invited and attended the CIE Spring 2005 meeting as a guest and drew attention to the IICAS Office of International Academic Exchange and Protocol (OIAEP), which, among other things, coordinates visits to UCSD by off-campus international education representatives, including Professor Kalonji's visit in May 2005.
